the main roads with the villages under Jawahar Rozgar Yojana or any other scheme;

(b) if so, the details thereof; and

(c) if not, the steps being taken to make the rural transport cheap and accessible?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT (SHRI G. VENKAT SWAMY): (a) to (c) There is no scheme under consideration of the Government of India to provide financial assistance to the State Governments or the District Rural Development Agencies (DRDAs) for construction of approach roads to achieve connectivity with the main roads. However, the construction of such roads can be taken up under the Jawahar Rozgar Yojana (JRY). DRDAs/Village Panchayats get their share of resources under the JRY each year according to a prescribed criterion. They can take up the construction of link roads from out of the resources made available to them, in case it is a felt-need of the people of the area, within the overall guidelines of the JRY prescribing that at least 60 per cent expenditure was on wage component of the unskilled labour in view of the programme being a wage-employment programme. More than one villages can join to pool their resources for construction of a link road which connects all the villages pooling resources.

This is the only Central Programme in operation at present. Besides, the State Governments may be financing their own programmes for construction of link roads about which no information is available at the Central level. It may be observed that rural development,, including the village link roads, are the responsibility of the State Governments.
